

BTEC Health and Social Care

“There is no greater joy nor greater reward than to make a fundamental difference in someone’s life.”

Julius Caesar

Course content

The Health and Social Care BTEC course provides pupils with the opportunity to develop a broader understanding of the health and social care sector, including factors that affect individuals’ lifestyle choices and their health, and the effective communication skills that can be transferred to other sectors.

It introduces the opportunity to understand some of the skills identified by employers as the fundamental building blocks for future competence in the workplace.

Skills developed

- Teamwork
- Effective organisation
- Presentation
- Communication
- Care for others
- Empathy, compassion and respect

Topics covered

- Human Lifestyle Development
- Health and Social Care values
- Effective communication in Health and Social Care
- Impact of nutrition on health and wellbeing

For more information

Mrs Holdsworth

holdsws02@carrmanor.org.uk

